About the Institute

About Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics Founded in 1930 by the Servants of India Society (SIS) with an endowment of Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale - the Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics (GIPE) - is one of the oldest and premier institutions of Economics in the country.

Under the leadership of Prof. D. R. Gadgil, its first director, the institute set up the highest standards of research, training, and teaching in the field of Economics. The institute always left its impact through theoretical and practical research outcomes. Followed by the legacy and exemplary work in the field of Economics, UGC granted the Institute status of a deemed-to-be university. In addition, it also has three advanced research centres funded by various ministries of the central government of India. These centres include the Agro Economic Research Centre, Population Research Centre, and Centre for the study of Social Exclusion and Inclusive Policy.

Given the strong research base the institute offers Ph.D. in Economics and allied subjects like agricultural economics, population studies, sociology and so on. Along with this, the institute offers post-graduation degree in six specialisations and a Bachelor's degree in Economics. It is supplemented by a one-year Certificate Program in Econometrics and Data Science.

The alumni of the institute are employed across sectors like academia, research institutions, international agencies, government and non-governmental organizations, financial institutions, banking, and many more.

About the Center

Established under the University Grants Commission XI Plan, the Centre for the Study of Social Exclusion and Inclusive Policy (CSSE&IP) at the Gokhale Institute of Politics And Economics (GIPE) is a multi-disciplinary centre that conducts research and teaching in the areas of social exclusion, studies on discrimination, and inclusive policy. The key objective of the Centre is to conceptualise and problematise discrimination, exclusion and inclusion based on caste, ethnicity and religion.

The Centre focuses on developing an understanding of the nature and dynamics of social exclusion and discrimination, at the theoretical and empirical levels. The Centre also focuses on collaborative research and activities with non-governmental organisations working for marginalised sections of society. One of the important objectives of the Centre is to disseminate knowledge and sensitise the public at large on patterns of discrimination and exclusion through public lectures and interactions.

Concept Note

Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, India's "Iron Man," stands as a towering figure in the nation's history, renowned for his unparalleled contributions to national unity and the shaping of modern India. As Independent India's first Home Minister and Deputy Prime Minister, Patel's legacy is etched in his deft unification of over 562 princely states into the Indian Union, laying the foundation for a cohesive national identity. His pragmatic political philosophy, rooted in Gandhian ideals, anti-colonial resistance, and a commitment to social reform, played a critical role in India's independence and post-independence nation-building. This National Seminar, approved under ICSSR's Rashtriya Ekta (National Unity) Seminars initiative to commemorate Patel's 150th birth anniversary by revisiting his monumental contributions and exploring their relevance to contemporary India within the framework of Vision Viksit Bharat 2047.

The seminar will delve into Patel's multifaceted legacy-his leadership in the Kheda and Bardoli Satyagrahas, his advocacy for farmers' and women's rights, and his diplomatic acumen in negotiating with princely states amidst the tumult of partition. By fostering scholarly engagement, this event aims to contemporize Patel's vision, offering insights into how his ideas can address 21st-century challenges such as governance, social justice, and national security.

Objectives

The seminar is designed to:

1. Re-examine Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel's contributions to India's anti-colonial struggle and national integration.
2. Analyze his political philosophy and its implications for modern governance and inclusive development.
3. Explore the relevance of Patel's commitment to social justice, gender equality, and farmers' rights in today's context.
4. Stimulate academic discourse on Patel's role in shaping India's national polity and institutions, with a focus on Vision Viksit Bharat 2047. Propose research-based insights and policy recommendations inspired by Patel's legacy for a united and progressive India.

Proposed Sub-themes:

Rashtriya Ekta Seminars themes, the seminar will focus on the following key areas, tailored to the title "Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel: Architect of National Unity and Modern India".
